

Let's Pray...

Heavenly Father, each new day is filled with awesome gifts that You give to Your children and I thank You for them. Forgive me when I receive all Your blessings and do not acknowledge them as gifts from You. I am created in Your image and have gifts of time, talents and resources, yet I don't use all that You have given me to the fullness of Your plan for my life. Guide me upon Your path that I may walk in Your ways, bringing You praise and glory each new day You give me. In Jesus' Name I pray, Amen.

Almighty God, You are my Maker and Creator! Thank You for allowing me to taste and delight in Your care and compassion in my life. When I sin, I know that I separate myself from You; but thanks to Jesus' redemptive work on the cross, Your forgiveness is truly a sweet, comforting smell! Enable me through Your Holy Spirit to see the physical needs of those around me and to hear the spiritual cries of those who don't know their Redeemer. Allow me to touch the life of just one person today with the message of salvation in Jesus that You so freely give! Please tune all my senses and use them as You will. In the Name of Jesus, Amen.

REFLECTIONS

Here I am again, God. It's me, M. I've been thinking about all the changes that have taken place in my lifetime and the advances in technology that have made our lives so much easier. But sometimes it is hard to keep up with all the changes. For the longest time I resisted one thing: learning how to use the computer. I thought I could get by the rest of my years without having to include computers in my life, but I have decided it's finally time that I get going and add the computer to all the other things I've managed to learn. I remember how I struggled at first, but I'm glad that I kept trying. Now I admit that I enjoy using it, especially connecting with my family by e-mail. Although many miles separate us, e-mail has made it possible to be in close contact with them and to share our joys and sorrows. What a blessing! Thank you for helping me overcome my fear of change and for surprising me with a new way to share Your love with my family and friends.

M
