

Spotlight on Priscilla The Rest of the Story

“A little change creates change.” This is Priscilla’s personal slogan. Now she lovingly fills that little Mite Box with change because of her increased passion for LWML after attending the convention in Portland as a Young Woman Representative.

After her experience in Portland, Priscilla was asked to share at the LWML Mid-South District convention. She said she was so grateful to be able to thank all the women present for allowing her to represent them in Portland. She was so inspired by the convention and now just wants to spread the word about the LWML.

Doors started to open for Priscilla to share her story after the district convention. She says many women at the convention encouraged her to speak at other events. She has since shared at zone rallies and is planning a full day retreat for the fall. Her passion for LWML shines through her service and her words. LWML Mid-South District President Henrietta Gordon has asked her to serve on the district board under the YWR Chairman, Tessa Brasher.

Priscilla has also found ways to serve with her church’s LWML society. The list of servant event activities they have taken part in is long. They are truly a group of women who are in the Word, serving their Lord and walking with Him. “We pray for each other and lift our church, our pastor and community’s needs to God.”

When reading her story and hearing her passion, it is easy to see that Priscilla lives each day in gratitude to her Lord for another day of life. Her life was changed in an instant when she suffered her stroke. Now she uses every opportunity she gets to serve others. “ ... I am so thankful to God for my life and the opportunity to do something spectacular with it.”
